Best Affordable Luxury Destination Wedding Travel Agency 2025 – North America

Providing opportunities to explore unfamiliar locations, try new experiences, and spend valuable time with our loved ones, it is no surprise that destination weddings have become more popular in recent years. As the desire for unique, personalised, and memorable celebrations has increased, as has the number of couples opting to tie the knot abroad. Today we celebrate Liz Moore Destination Weddings, a leading destination wedding travel agency specialising in travel to Mexico and the Caribbean. As the agency features in the Global Wedding Awards 2025, we learned more from Owner and CEO, Liz Moore.

For almost two decades, Liz Moore Destination Weddings has proudly assisted engaged couples throughout the USA and Canada with planning travel for the destination weddings of their dreams. A full-service agency catering to those travelling to Mexico and the Caribbean, Liz Moore Destination Weddings strives to provide a seamless travel booking experience for its couples' beloved family and friends. The company was established by Owner and Founder Liz Moore in 2006, the same year of her own destination wedding. From that moment, Liz knew that her true passion and career lay in assisting couples with their own special day.

The agency strives to provide premium services at an affordable price, believing that price should not compromise quality. To achieve this mission, Liz Moore Destination Weddings has built extensive relationships with an array of all-inclusive resorts from all price categories, alongside providing completely complementary travel arrangement services and arranging all travel and accommodations for the couple and their guests. This ensures that each couple it serves can sit back and enjoy a perfectly blissful wedding day whilst being provided with affordable yet non-compromising service and value.

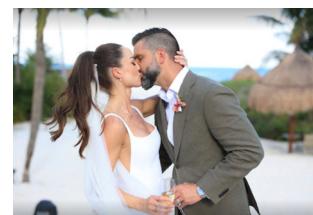

This presents a highly appealing option, especially in today's unpredictable financial climate. With traditional at-home weddings often being costly and guests already facing travel expenses to attend, many couples are recognising the advantages of hosting their celebrations under the stunning sunsets of Mexico or the Caribbean. By doing so, guests can transform their usual travel costs into an extraordinary, once-in-a-lifetime vacation wedding experience.

"Our company has grown exponentially due to all-inclusive resorts understanding this principle and thus creating very affordable on-site wedding package options," Liz explained. "To add to this, resorts also offer very attractive incentives to the couples; the more you invite, the more you save on your overall wedding costs. This makes it a complete win for all – guests can enjoy a fun-filled wedding event, and couples can celebrate their wedding without breaking the bank."

Since its inception, Liz Moore Destination Weddings has gone from strength to strength in its mission of empowering its clientele to achieve the destination wedding of their dreams. Having worked in the industry since 2006, Liz has mastered the art of the destination wedding and has hand-selected the best destination wedding travel specialists to work alongside her. With the belief that the foundation of a good business is fostering a positive and caring atmosphere, Liz strives to provide her team with the encouragement and support they need to excel.

"I could not be prouder of my destination wedding team," she said. "Their passion for their work is unprecedented. I am grateful to have the best team in the business assisting our couples each and every day. I must add that we could not have achieved what we have without a fantastic team of suppliers and resorts who work alongside us each day to provide the best travel experience possible to our couples and their guests. It truly does take a village to make it all happen!"

This team has been instrumental in Liz Moore Destination Weddings' success, particularly in navigating unprecedented times that have shaken the industry as a whole. For the destination wedding agency – relying heavily on travel – COVID-19 was an especially difficult period that required unrelenting motivation and dedication. Many agents had exited the industry due to the hardships that came with extended travel agency closures.

"As an agency owner, it was a very difficult time for me," Liz recalled. "However, through hard work and determination, I was able to home in on these amazing agents who have withstood the test of the COVID-19 enforced shutdowns. Thus, I was able to create a team of the most dedicated and passionate agents you could ever hope for. There is no day that I do not feel grateful for having the incredible team I have in place. I look forward to the future and seeing their goals realised as we continue to serve our amazing couples – the ones who truly make this work so rewarding."
